

Retrodata
www.retrodata.co.uk

Disclaimer 2006

We're not all about blinding clients with pages of legal terms and threats.

All you need to know about us is that we will work to the very best of our ability, with the resources available to us, and we will strive to provide you with the best service you have ever received.

We are not miracle workers, despite having been told it a number of times, and there are occasions where we have to consider your data unrecoverable. For this reason, we are not able to guarantee to recover your data.

However, we have a commitment not to "give up" without a long, intensive battle - regardless of whether you are a private individual needing a few photographs recovered, or a multinational with a massive server and terabytes of mission-critical data involving myriad drives and controllers. We're on your side. Our abilities are superb, our service flawless, and our pricing, more than satisfactory. We're here to help. Please take advantage of us!